

Author Talk in Family History Week

With Noeline Kyle

A Greater Guilt is a scholarly/popular history where Noeline interrogates the events of the murder of Constance's 3 year-old half-brother in Wiltshire, England in 1860, her confession in 1865 and, linking that brutal past to the later years, writes a fascinating story about Constance Kent's life in prison and her more than 50 years in Australia.

Based on years of historical research Noeline has reconstructed the astonishing events of the Road murder and lives of the Kent family and their descendants - and writes a full and complete biography of Constance Emilie Kent, from her birth in 1844 to her death in 1944. A Greater Guilt offers new and controversial conclusions about the perpetrator of the crime, about family secrets, the myths of women's lives and the making up of history.
